BOY SUSPECTS HELD IN JAIL

Captured West of This City When Officer and His Assistant Surprise Them.

FREIGHT CARS ARE ROBBED

C. H. & D. Detective Here and Puts
Two Young Prisoners Through Severe Sweating Process.

Two boys giving various names and addresses are in jail and the local police and detective Black are trying to learn something about them. Detective Black, after putting them through a severe questioning believes that he knows one of them, and that he is under a suspended sentence for an offense in Indianapolis. The detectives are after a man who robbed a trunk, while it was in the care of the C. H. & D. However, the boys are held suspected with robbing cars.

Recently a car was robbed in the yards in this city and the police believe that one of the boys at least was implicated in this one. Yesterday the boys were noticed in the yards at the C. H. & D. and when they saw that they were watched started west on the track. Officer Pea was called and with Tom Ansberry, an employe at the C. H. & D. station, started in pursuit. They walked most of the way, but before reaching the Walker farm four miles west of the city, got in a buggy and in this way passed the boys.

The officer and Ansberry then hid and waited until the boys came up. Just as they were opposite the officer and his assistant, the boys were bragging about what a "slick" escape they had made. Gently, quietly and politely they were asked to make just as "slick" a slide back toward the county jail. And after a little persuasion they started, in charge of Officer Pea and Ansberry, and they were a bit glum, dusty and hot when they landed in the "cooler." They have given different names and the officers do not believe that one of them at least has given his right name. It is thought they both live in Indianapolis. They will be held pending further investigation by Detective Black who returned to Indianapolis this afternoon.

HANDICAP SHOOT A CLOSE CONTEST

First of a Series of Events For the Trophies Held at Gun Club
Grounds Yesterday.

TO CONTINUE SEVERAL WEEKS

Tie Resulted in Each Series—Dr. E.
F. VanOsdol and C. Williams
Were Winners.

The first of a series of handicap shoots was held at the Gun and Country club grounds yesterday afternoon. The prizes, two beautiful trophies, are offered by the Ballistile and the Dupont Powder companies.

According to the conditions of the shoot the trophy must be won by the same man three times before he can claim it. In this manner the contest may be kept up for an unlimited number of weeks because the same shooter may not win first twice in succession for a number of weeks as they are all very evenly matched.

The trophies are very valuable and are well worth working for. One of them is a beautiful image of a dog just in the act of sighting a nest of birds and the other is a piece of statuary. Only the members of the club can take part in the shoot and they are all out for the prizes.

The shoot yesterday was very closely contested, each event ending in a tie and necessitated shooting it off. C. Williams of New Salem was the winner in the Ballistile event and Dr. E. F. VanOsdol was the winner in the Dupont event. Twenty-five shoots were taken in the first event and Williams and VanOsdol tied with twenty-four out of a possible twenty-five birds, Williams making a perfect score in shooting off the tie. In the other event four shooters tied for first honors, all with a perfect score, each breaking twenty-five pigeons out of a possible twenty-five. In shooting off the tie Dr. E. F. VanOsdol made nine out of a possible ten and won the first place. The scores are as follows:

WORLD FAMOUS WOMAN DRIVER

Miss May Simpson Will Race Her
Horses at the Fair this Year.

OWNS ALL HER OWN STRING

New Attractions Being Added Every Day, and Fair Will Be Greatest in History.

A day never passes but that Secretary Will King obtains a new and added attraction to the Rush county fair. The numerous features this year will draw such crowds as never assembled on the local fair grounds. Already local residents are receiving word from their relatives in all parts of the United States that they are postponing their visit here until fair week, when they can not only enjoy the visit, but also the fair. The fair serves many purposes, the foremost being to entertain and it also affords an opportunity for old friends to visit for a day. People may meet on the fair grounds who have not seen each other for several years, and often many happy reunions are brought about.

But the fair this year will draw immense crowds on account of the numerous and varied attractions offered. The latest addition to the list is Miss Mae Simpson, the world-famous expert lady driver. She is expected to be the most daring and successful lady driver in the world. She not only owns her own horses, but also trains them and drives them in the races.

She has written that she will be here for the races and will enter her horses. She is not in the races merely for the pleasure, but is out for the money all the time. She has driven in the big circuits over all of the eastern tracks and has won many races. Miss Simpson is considered a wonder among horsemen, and is always a much-feared competitor. She receives big press notices wherever she races.

Younger & Newhouse, a local firm, will make a display of their acetylene lights in agricultural hall. They have recently started in business here and have enjoyed wonderful success. They make a bright and clear light and are planning to make a beautiful display fair week.

The large air ship was hauled to the fair grounds yesterday evening, all of the paraphernalia requiring three drays to haul it. Prof. Nassr is here with the air craft and preparations are being made to put it together at once. Prof. Nassr is very much enthused over the prospects for his flights next week, and hopes to make them the best of his career.

COLE IS HONORED WITH INVITATION

Asked to Direct Chorus in National Meeting of Christian Church at Pittsburg.

ITS HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY

Homer Cole has received an invitation to lead one of the choruses at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the Christian church to be held at Pittsburg beginning October 12. This is one of the most important events in the history of the church and plans have been under way for three years. The affair is national in its scope and all the prominent singers and preachers in the United States will be on the program.

Mr. Cole was much surprised to receive the invitation and his friends are much elated over the honor bestowed by the invitation. Since there are so many prominent singers available the selection of Mr. Cole is indeed an honor.

Mr. Cole and W. R. Corter of Ligonier, Pa., left today for a meeting at Warrington, Ind.

C. H. & D. RECEIVER RETIRES TONIGHT

Governor Harmon of Ohio, Glad to be Rid of Responsibility, But Hates to Quit.

THAT DEAL WITH THE B. & O.

After filling the position for four years, Governor Harmon of Ohio, will retire at midnight tonight as receiver of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad. The road will be taken over by the company which has been reorganized, and is now on a sound financial footing. Governor Harmon says that while he is glad to be relieved of the responsibility of managing the affairs of the company, he is loath to sever the ties between himself and the employes which have been most pleasant.

The deal with the B. & O. is now practically closed and it is thought that the change will be made in a few days.

covery While Threshing.

PIONEER DAYS ARE RECALLED

Old Settlers of County Hold Their Annual Meeting at the Fair Ground Today.

A TINGE OF SADNESS THERE

Many Who Had Taken Part in Former Years Were Not in Attendance.

As usual there was a tinge of sadness in the annual meeting of the old settlers at the fair ground today. There were many faces missed and many who in former years have enjoyed these meetings and taken a prominent part in them were not present today. Many of the pioneers of the county have gone to that final reunion in the better land, while others were too feeble to go to the fair ground today to hear the old time music and listen to the speeches.

About the usual number attended the meeting today, and seated in the grand stand they listened intently to the speech of Lieutenant Governor Frank J. Hall as he referred to the early days in the wilderness and then discussed things more recent and paid homage to the grand old men and the grand old women of Rush county.

Perhaps one of the most interesting features of the meeting today was the singing of the old time hymns, and the singing of them in the way they used to be sung in the little old log school houses and churches. John A. Spurrier, with his Diapason singers, directed the music, and it was truly pathetic to see the tears come to the eyes of some feeble old grandfather or some woman bent with age, as they tried to join in the music with the voices that one time made the woods ring with sweet music.

The usual routine business was transacted. The roll of those who have died during the year, published on page four, was read by Eugene Miller. The Rev. Thomas B. Gary is the retiring president; Bert Reeve, secretary; and George R. Woods, treasurer.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.—take the advice received and be well.

Rushville Will!

A Michigan judge has decided that a man may spank his wife when it is necessary. Now it will take a judge and a jury to decide when it is necessary.

Since it has been discovered that the new Lincoln pennies are too thick to be used in slot machines, we begin to understand the whereof of the outcry against their "artistic beauty."

Notwithstanding New Castle's alleged phenomenal growth the Pennsylvania railroad company seems to think otherwise, for it has ordered its new fast Chicago train to stop at all points except at the village of New Castle. Of course, New Castle will not stand for this. Its pride is hurt to the quick.

"Wanted—a reliable aeroplane motor," is the heading of a leading article in the Scientific American. The only motor which can be considered in aeroplane flights, is the gasoline motor, and as soon as a reliable, never-failing motor is constructed, the problem of the flying machine is solved.

The Lafayette Journal attributes the retirement of Representative Crumpacker from the ways and means committee to his disgust with the arbitrary ways of the old organization, and his intention to act with the progressive Republicans. It would seem to have been wiser to stay on the committee and there use his influence in favor of progressive principles.

Texas claims to have the three champion stinky men of the country. One of them will not drink as much water as he wants unless it comes from another man's well. The second champion stinky man forbids his family from writing anything but a small hand, as he says it is a waste of ink to make large letters. The third stops his clock night to save wear and tear on the works.

The meeting of the city council last Tuesday again proved the saying, "it all depends whose ox is gored." Eleven petitioners asked to have Perkins street paved. The majority of the property owners remonstrated, and the council decided in favor of the remonstrators. This is all very well, but a couple of years ago ONE property owner petitioned for side-walk improvements, while ALL the other property owners remonstrated, but council decided in favor of the ONE petitioner. "It all depends whose ox is gored."

The Young Men's Commercial Club of this city are laying great plans for the welfare and material growth of Rushville. They are working with a determination to do something for this city. Already several industries of a diversified nature are in sight—some of them asking for no further help than a "glad-hand" encouragement and a disposition not to throw any obstacles in the way. Everyone in Rushville should give these young men all the encouragement possible and an "all-pull-together" disposition should prevail among all citizens.

Our neighbor and contemporary, the Democrat, changed its name yesterday back to the "Jacksonian." We regard this as a wise move on the part of the new publishers, Messrs. Newbold and Puntney. The Jacksonian was an old established paper, and the name was familiar and dear to several generations of Rush county Democrats. We now have again the conditions of years ago—two newspapers with old familiar names, the Jacksonian and the Republican—representing respectively the Democratic and Republican party in Rush county. We extend to the Jacksonian the fraternal hand.

The Agricultural and Horticultural Experiment Station at Purdue University is certainly of great help and benefit to the farmers. At present the station is arranging for demonstration meetings to be held all over the State to help fruit growers. It is asserted that while some are making money from their fruit trees, many are not. One of the main reasons for this is the lack of intelligent care given the trees, and another reason—and one which probably accounts for most of the losses—is the failure of the farmers to harvest and market their fruit properly and in a systematic manner. The majority of fruit tree owners, and among them those in Rush county, need prodding both in the care of the trees and in systematically harvesting and marketing the ripe fruit.

KRAMMES FAMILY IN ANNUAL REUNION

The annual Krammes family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Krammes, southwest of this city yesterday. Over one hundred members and descendants of the family were present and enjoyed the day visiting. People were present from all parts of the State. An elaborate dinner was spread at noon. During the course of the afternoon a short business session and the minutes of last year's reunion were read. same time amusing and entertaining. It shows an astronomer and scientist's room filled with telescopes, magnifying glasses, kaleidoscope and a general assortment of physical laboratory paraphernalia. A boy comes in the room and looks through the various instruments, and then the film shows what he sees: A magnified cat's head, birds, a watch movement, a scene of one of the most famous Parisian boulevards with the triumphal arch in distance, the same view at close range, some park episodes, and looking at the heavens through a telescope, an exact reproduction of Saturn and its ring is given and a view of the moon. Looking through a microscope on a piece of Roquefort cheese, thousands of worms are revealed, and looking at a drop of water, the most loathsome microscopic life is seen. Finally, the movements of the human eye is shown on a very much enlarged scale. In the second film, which is a colored transformation spectacle, a real ruin is shown.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR
M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"I can save you the trouble of going to the matquis," he said. "He and the marchioness are in London at present. Left Paris a month ago."

"What? The house is closed?" in deep anxiety.

"I think not. Servants are all there. I dare say. Their place adjoins the Brabetz palace. The princess is his niece, you know."

"You say the Brabetz palace is next door?" demanded Chase, steadying his voice with an effort.

"Yes—the old Flaurebert mansion. The princess was to have been the social sensation of Paris this year. She's a wonderful beauty, you know."

"Was to have been?"

"She married that rotten Brabetz last June, but of course you never heard of it out there in what's-the-name-of-the-place. You may have heard of his murder, however. His mistress shot him in Brussels."

"Great God, man!" gasped Chase, clutching his arm in a grip of iron.

"The devil, Chase!" cried the other, amazed. "What's the matter?"

"He's dead? Murdered? How—when? Tell me about it!" cried Chase, his agitation so great that James looked at him in wonder.

"Gad, you seem to be interested!"

"I am! Where is she—I mean the princess and the other woman?"

"Cool off, old man. People are staring at you. Brabetz was shot three weeks ago at a hotel in Brussels. He'd been living there for two months, more or less, with the woman. In fact, he left Paris almost immediately after he was married to the Princess Genevra. The gossip is that she wouldn't live with him. She'd found out what sort of a dog he was. They didn't have a honeymoon, and they didn't attempt a bridal tour. Somehow they kept the scandal out of the papers. Well, he hiked out of Paris at the end of a week, just before the 14th. The police had asked the woman to leave town. He followed. Dope fiend, they say. The bride went into seclusion at once. She's never to be seen anywhere. The woman shot him through the head and then took a fine dose of poison. It was a ripping news story. The prominence of the—"

"This was a month ago?" demanded Chase, trying to fix something in his mind. "Then it was after the yacht left Marseilles with orders to pick me up at Ararat?"

"What are you talking about? Sure it was, if the yacht left Marseilles six weeks ago. What's that got to do with it?"

"Nothing. Don't mind me, Arch. I'm a bit upset."

"There was talk of a divorce almost before the wedding bells ceased ringing. The grand duke got his eyes opened when it was too late. He repented of the marriage. The princess was obliged to live in Paris for a certain length of time before applying to the courts for freedom. Gad, I'll stake my head she's happy these days!"

Chase was silent for a long time. He was quite cool and composed when at last he turned to his friend.

"Arch, do me a great favor. Look out for Selim and Neenah. Take 'em to the hotel and see that they get settled. I'll join you this evening. Don't ask questions, but put me down here. I'll take another cab. There's a good fellow. I'll explain soon. I'm—I'm going somewhere, and I'm in a hurry."

The vulture drew up before the historic old palace in the Boulevard St. Germain. Chase's heart was beating furiously as he stepped to the curb. The cocher leaned forward for instructions. His fare hesitated for a moment, swayed by a momentary indecision.

"Attendre," he said finally. The driver adjusted his register and settled back to wait. Then Chase mounted the steps and lifted the knocker with trembling fingers. He was dizzy with eagerness, cold with uncertainty.

She had asked him to come to her, but conditions were not the same as when she sent the compelling message. There had come into her life a vital break, a change that altered everything. What was it to mean to him?

He stood a moment later in the salon of the old Flaurebert palace, vaguely conscious that the room was darkened by the drawn blinds and that it was cool and sweet to his senses. He knew that she was coming down the broad hallway. He could hear the rustle of her gown.

Inconsequently he was wondering whether she would be dressed in black. Then, to his humiliation, he remembered that he was wearing uncouth, travel soiled garments.

She was dressed in white—a house gown, simple and alluring. There was no suggestion of the coronet, no shadow of grief in her manner, as she came swiftly toward him, her hands extended, a glad light in her eyes.

The tall man, voiceless with emotion, clasped her hands in his and looked down into the smiling, rapturous face. "You came!" she said, almost in a whisper.

"Yes. I could not have stayed away. I have just heard that you—you are free. You must not expect me to offer condolences. It would be sheer hypocrisy. I am glad—I am glad! You sent for me—you sent the yacht, Genevra, before—before you were free. I came knowing that you belonged to another. I find you the same as when I knew you first—when I held you in my arms and heard you say that you loved me. You do not grieve—you do not mourn. You are the same, my Genevra—the same that I have dreamed of and suffered for all these months. Something tells me that you have descended to my plane. I will not kiss you, Genevra, until you have promised to become my wife."

She had not taken her eyes from his white, intense face during this long

When the order for the destruction was received the sheriff and his deputies, with Assistant Attorney General White, entered the place where the devices were stored and began their destruction with axes and sledges, piling the broken fragments into a heap preparatory to applying the torch.

The officers wielded axes on the massive mahogany devices that had cost the original owner hundreds of dollars, and the destruction of the valuable woodwork was soon completed. The demolition was witnessed by a large number of people who had heard of the order of the court, and many people stood and watched the broken devices burn.

The destruction of the gambling devices followed a compromise effected at Orleans in the suits brought against Edgar Derry and George Charles, arrested at the time of Governor Hanly's raids on the French Lick and West Baden gambling houses. Both Derry and Charles pleaded guilty to charges of maintaining gambling rooms.

The chief question at issue, however, and the one which has caused the suits to hang fire for three years, was the disposal of the gambling devices, estimated to be worth $10,000, which were seized in the gambling raids. Former Governor Hanly's agents in the raids seized every movable piece of furniture found in the rooms at the time of the raids and assumed control of it, except the roulette wheels, which the raiders were never able to find—all but one wheel, which was stolen from the raiders when an official back was turned, and which was never found. The furniture consisted of thirty-four slot machines, ten roulette tables and klondike layouts, hieronymous sets, etc.

In order to bring the cases to an end the attorney general consented to receive pleas of guilty from Derry and Charles and to permit them to retain such furniture as was not gambling furniture, or such furniture as was not manufactured, purchased and used for gambling purposes. This agreement enabled the defendants to retain a large number of chairs, tables, desks, stands, etc., which were used in the gambling rooms, but which were not gambling devices.

"I want you for my husband, dearest," summing up.

"Holdingsworth, I cannot, I will not blame you for thinking ill of me," she said. "Have I fallen in your eyes? I wanted you to be near me. I wanted you to know that when the courts freed me from that man I would be ready and happy to come to you as your wife. I am not in mourning today, you see. I knew you were coming. As God is my witness, I have no husband to mourn for. He was nothing to me. I want you for my husband, dearest. It was what I meant when I sent out there for you—that and nothing else."

[THE END.]

"Drop In Any Time."

One of the pitfalls of friendship is the standing invitation. It is easy and pleasant to say: "Come whenever you like, my dear! We shall be delighted to see you at any time; don't stand on ceremony—come whenever you are this way." But let those who receive such invitations beware. It stands to reason that an unexpected visit cannot always be convenient—the hostess is in the midst of something or other and "not fit to be seen," or her husband has rushed home to take her out somewhere and she would rather go than stay at home and entertain her dearest friend, or the luncheon or the dinner is a makeshift—very nice, so far as the family is concerned, but not exactly suitable to set before visitors. The hostess tries to be nice, but can't help showing her vexation or embarrassment. The guest perceives something indefinable in the atmosphere and is accordingly constrained, and every one is uncomfortable. Yet people still go on giving and accepting standing invitations.—New York Tribune.

Costly Bonfire Witnessed by

SETTLED BY A COMPROMISE

After a Three Years' Delay in Court, the Defendants in "the Valley"

Gambling Cases Pleaded Guilty, thus Affording a Conviction Upon Which an Order to Destroy Gaming Devices

Could Be Based—Such Furniture as Was Not Used For Gambling Purposes Was Spared From the Bonfire.

Paoli, Ind., Aug. 19.—With a costly bonfire the state of Indiana has just celebrated a victory over the gamblers of "the valley." The fuel was composed of the gambling devices seized by the state in the raid on the West Baden and French Lick casinos in July, 1906.

Many cases were filed against the attaches of these casinos, and these cases were continued from time to time in the justice courts of Orange county. Nothing definite was done until this week, when Edward H. White, assistant attorney general, met the attorneys for the defendants in Justice Wooner's court at Orleans, where a plea of guilty was entered in two cases and a fine of $25 was assessed by the justice in each case, which carried with it the demolition of the gambling devices, estimated to be worth nearly $10,000. The devices had been stored here since their seizure in 1906, and had been under the care of the sheriff.

When the order for the destruction was received the sheriff and his deputies, with Assistant Attorney General White, entered the place where the devices were stored and began their destruction with axes and sledges, piling the broken fragments into a heap preparatory to applying the torch.

The officers wielded axes on the massive mahogany devices that had cost the original owner hundreds of dollars, and the destruction of the valuable woodwork was soon completed. PERISHING SAILOR
OWES LIFE TO DOG

Interesting Incident of the Wreck of the Arlington.

New York, Aug. 19.—"By golly, I thought I was a goner," said Madden Pierson, the missing seaman of the wrecked schooner Irene and Mary, after having drifted without food, drink or sleep for twenty-seven hours on a crazy raft of lashed spars. Then he took a long pull from the captain's flask, swallowed a cup of piping hot coffee and turned in, without further comment. Not until he awoke from a sound sleep did he complete his narrative.

While Pierson was rolled up in blankets below, Captain Ericsson of the Irene and Mary was making something of a hero of "Sport," a black, curly-haired spaniel, the schooner's mascot. For an hour before the rescue, Sport had been sniffing the windward air, pawing the rail and yelping excitedly. Puzzled by the dog's behavior, the captain kept a sharp lookout, and when he saw what looked like a buoy slipped from its moorings, he headed the schooner for it immediately. Soon he could make out with the aid of his glasses the figure of a man waving his undershirt. It was Pierson.

SECRETARY SHIPP'S REVIEW

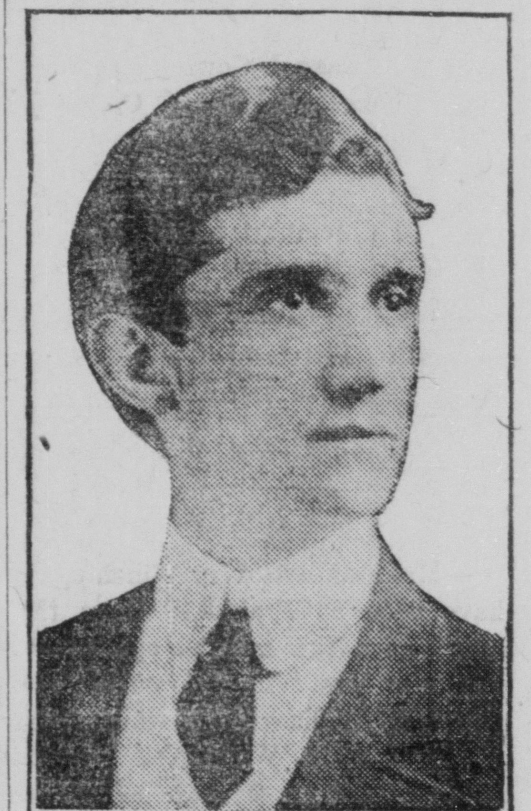

Secretary of the National Conservation Commission Talks of the Rapid Growth of Sentiment Favorable to the Conservation of Our National Resources—Many State Legislatures to Take Up the Matter in Earnest During the Coming Winter—A Good Word For the Indiana Natural Gas Law.

Indianapolis, Aug. 19.—After having made a tour of the New England states in the interest of conservation matters, Thomas R. Shipp, secretary of the national conservation commission, is in Indianapolis. He will leave in a short time for Seattle to attend the national conservation congress, which will be held Aug. 26 to 28.

Mr. Shipp says he has received word that sixteen governors have accepted invitations to accompany President Taft down the Mississippi river early in November to attend the meeting of the Lakes to the Gulf Deep Waterway association.

"There is every indication," said Mr. Shipp today, "that great interest will be taken in conservation affairs in the state legislatures during the coming winter. The governors of the states I have visited seem to be greatly interested in conservation.

"I believe probably the greatest activity will be shown by the lawmakers of those states where there are valuable timber tracts. The feeling that the forests should be preserved is pretty general. Of course this work must be taken up largely through the different state legislatures."

"The commission of which I am secretary believes that the natural gas law of Indiana is a model law, and it is probable that copies of this law will be sent out to conservation commissions in all states. Of course there was one mistake in Indiana and that was that the law was not enacted soon enough. In Louisiana now they are wasting natural gas just as they did in Indiana several years ago, and the legislature has taken action to save the supply."

Mr. Shipp says that last March there were only thirty-five states with active conservation commissions. Now he explains there are forty-two states with such commissions. In addition there are conservation committees in fifty-one of the leading national associations of the country, such as the National Manufacturers' association.

Salt Lake, Aug. 19.—The standard of the Grand Army of the Republic, which has been carried for the past twenty years by the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army and has been the official banner of every encampment since 1889, has been missing since the parade of the veterans on Aug. 11, and it is feared it has been stolen. When last seen it was floating over the reviewing stand. The flag was presented to the Grand Army in 1889 in Milwaukee.

HAPPY THE LOT OF THE FARMER

Everything On His Side, According to This.

A WONDERFUL DEVELOPMENT

Current Report of the Department of Agriculture Points Out Some of the Reasons Why It Is Well to Stick to the Farm—According to Secretary Wilson's Report, the Farmer Has Thrived Mightily—Progress in Numerous Lines All Add to His Material and Social Welfare and to the Strength of the Nation.

Washington, Aug. 19.—The agricultural balance of trade in the United States increased from a yearly average of $234,000,000 to $411,000,000, or 75.7 per cent, during the last twelve years, the period covering the administration of Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, according to the department's year book, just made public.

This wonderful development is only in keeping with the progress that has been made along all lines of agricultural activity. At the same time, it is stated, many conditions affecting the lives of the farmers of the country have advanced in even greater ratio until many of the undesirable features of farm life have been eliminated.

"So increasingly disposed has the public been to ask and receive the aid of the department, and so large have been the new fields assigned to it by congress," says Mr. Wilson in a resume of his work, "that the number of employees has increased enormously. On July 1, 1897, 2,444 persons were employed, and eleven years later, in 1908, the number was 10,420, or over four times as many."

During these twelve years there has been a great diversification and geographic extension of products, apart from the cultivation of new lands. Although there has been a decreasing production per acre of what was only recently virgin soil, there was an increased production per acre of the entire country. The yield per acre of cotton during the ten years ending with 1906, was from a mean of 172 pounds per acre during the preceding ten years to a mean of 191 pounds, or an 11 per cent increase. Other crops have kept pace with cotton. Within ten years the production of corn per acre in Ohio increased 17.5 per cent, and in Virginia 18.3 per cent. Oats increased 17.9 per cent in Indiana. Wheat increased 16.2 per cent in New York and 45.9 per cent in Nebraska. Similar development was made in the yield per acre of other products.

Citing the increase in population based upon the families of the native born, Secretary Wilson declares that no one need have fear that the farmers of this country will ever be unable to provide for its population. "They are already demonstrating, in the cases of various crops and of various states," he says, "that they can provide for a population increasing faster than by increase due to excess of births over deaths."

From 1893 to 1906, he says, farm wages increased faster than did prices. In the matter of wage increase, the farm laborer has fared better than the working man employed in manufacturing and mechanical industries.

"The farmer," says the secretary, "in results of information, intelligence and industry, has thrived mightily. The progress that has been made is in the direction leading to popular and national welfare, to the sustenance of any future population, as well as to a larger efficiency of the farmer in matters of wealth production and saving, and in establishing himself and his family in more pleasant ways of living."

COURT SAYS SUTTON TOOK HIS OWN LIFE

Either Killed Himself Intentionally Or by Accident.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—That Lieutenant Sutton "was killed by a revolver shot from a service Colt revolver held in his own right hand and fired by himself without the intervention of any other hand," is the finding of the naval court of inquiry in the case of the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton of the marine corps.

The report is signed by John Hood, commander, U. S. N., president of the board, and Henry Leonard, major U. S. M. C., judge advocate.

The court adds to its opinion that no possible charge of criminality lies against any of the participants in the fray except Lieutenant Sutton himself and that "Lieutenant Sutton was directly and solely responsible for his own death, which was self-inflicted, either intentionally or in an effort to shoot one of the persons restraining him, and his death was not caused by any other injury whatever."

When shown the report of the court of inquiry, Henry E. Davis, attorney for Mrs. Sutton, said: "The judge advocate's handling of the case is fitly supplemented by the court's action, which makes the inquiry a mere curtain raiser to the performance."

Mr. Davis asked to be excused from making any statement as to the future course that may be followed in this case. The verdict is the result of an inquiry which for several weeks had under investigation the cause of the death at Annapolis Naval academy in October, 1907, of Second Lieutenant James N. Sutton of the United States marine corps. The verdict has been approved by the judge advocate general of the army and by Beekman Winthrop, assistant and acting secretary of the navy.

MUSICIANS LET OUT

Band at Soldiers' Home Dismissed For Insobordination.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 19.—The national soldiers' home in this city is without a band for the first time in the twelve years of its existence. The first that was known that the musicians had been let out developed Monday afternoon, when no regular afternoon concert in the home grove was given. Governor Barger, the new executive of the home, issued an order last week increasing the number of concerts from six to eight. The time of playing in each case was lengthened from an hour to an hour and a quarter.

The members of the band were up in arms and nineteen out of twenty-one musicians insisted that the old schedule of running things be restored by August 18. Governor Barger refused to listen to the order and demanded their resignations at once.

When the bandmen realized that the executive of the home was determined they sent a message asking that they be reinstated. Governor Barger sent notice of his act to the national board of managers at New York and his action is expected to be reviewed by that body before permanent steps of reorganization will be taken.

LYTLE'S DRUG STORE.

An Easy and Harmless Way to Darken the Hair.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

The proper way and method of treating a cough or cold is to first of all gently move the bowels. This you can most conveniently do by taking a dose or two of Bees Laxative Cough Syrup. It is pleasant to take acts promptly. Children like it. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

GREAT ADMIRER OF G. R. CHESTER

W. E. Clifton Gets a Letter From the Author in Regard to an Old Story.

TIN RAILROAD INCORPORATED

George Randolph Chester, whose reputation as a short story writer is now national, has one especial admirer in Rushville. W. E. Clifton a few years ago read "The Tin Railroad Incorporated." Since that time he has been a lover of Mr. Chester's work, and recently wrote the author to ask if the story had appeared in book form. He has received a personal letter from Chester, who says the story has not been published in book form and probably will not be for three or four years.

BY THE WAYSIDE

This is the tallest corn story of the season and is being told among the traveling men over the State. It is said to have been in a letter written home by an eastern visitor: "Most of the Kansas streets are paved, grains of corn being used for cobblestones, while the cobs are hollowed out for sewer pipe. The husk, when taken off whole and stood on end, makes a nice tent for the children to play in. It sounds queer to hear the feed men tell the driver to take a dozen grains of horse feed over to Jackson's livery stable. If it were not for soft, deep soil here I don't see how they would ever harvest the corn, as the stalks would grow up as high in the air as the Methodist steeple. However, when the ears get too heavy their weight presses the stalks down in the ground on an average of 92 feet, and thus brings the ear near enough to the ground to be chopped off with an ax."
